

Reverie Daydream

Description

My project will be an e-commerce website. Some inspiration for the website is Urban Outfitters or Free People. There will be a navigation bar for different categories of clothes, the shopping cart and checkout, and an about page. On the website there will be images of the buyable clothes with descriptions and prices. There will also be images of the models/photoshoot advertising the collections, maybe with a horizontal scroll. Guests can use the website to shop, but known users will be able to log in and save their card information and cart for later.
